Effects of
Chinese products on Indian Economy:

As we all know that our Indian Economy is adversely affected by the increasing use of the Chinese products by the large number of buyers. It is known that Chinese products should be banned, but the question is how to ban Chinese products? As an Indian citizen it is our duty that we must should use products that are made in India not made in China or another country. If we people start counting the number of Indian products or Chinese products in our house or room surely we will find too many things which were made in China but it will be most difficult thing to find out products made by our Indian Economy. Everything Toys, stationery, T.V., Pen, Pencil we buy were manufactured those three words Made In China.

RAN ON CHINESE PRODUCTS

India and China are two emerging economies in the world. Both have made a huge impact on trade within or outside their own country. But China has reached the masses in India with its cheaper imports. Indian manufacturers or companies feel threatened by the imports of Chinese goods.

Countries like India, Vietnam and Philippines called for the ban on Chinese goods. But it is not possible to achieve this goal because China produces high number of products that are used or sold across the world. China imports only 0.8% of its total imports from India whereas India imports 12.5% of its imports from China which leads to great loss to Indian economy.

Reasons for putting ban

- * Small scale Industries are worst hit by the Chinese products. Currently, it causes livelihoods depends on Micro, Small and Medium enterprises (MSME) sector.
- * There is a great trade deficit between India and China. India exports worth $9 bn from China and India imports worth $61 bn which leads to great loss to Indian economy.
- * In India, the industries are on the closing due because of imports.
